

By Gordon Duff, Senior Editor

In 2010, Wikileaks was successfully exposed as an intelligence operation by the Israelis. Initially, Veterans Today put it all together followed by Zbigniew Brzezinski but, truthfully, none of that was needed. Assange virtually confessed with every breath. His hatred of any nation that stood against Israel was obvious.

His extremist right wing politics and his continual advocacy of war, framed in the persona of a pretend "hacker/pirate" was almost sad. His photos, "back in the day," always looked like he had hired Mussolini's publicist.

You didn't know he had dark brown hair? Oh that. There is more, much more.

Let's start with his initial cover story. As a bit of framing, some may be aware that, in Britain, a decades old child sex and murder scandal is going on that touches the highest levels of government. In order to contain it, they are only investigating people in their late 70s and 80s, which means, curiously enough, all investigations are covering periods from the late 1970s and 80s.

There is a reason for mentioning this, that the “circles” Assange has always moved in, Murdoch and company, his powerful friends, his Israeli connections, are all part of the child sex story that Britain spends its energy shoving under a rug.

More framing needed. Assange came to us accused of “date rape.” Seems, according to the stories, he got a couple of Swedish women, single with a history of “adventure dating,” drunk and they had sex.

A couple of things; note from the photo above that Assange dyes his hair. You might also have noted that Julian Assange is less than physically imposing. In fact, nobody takes the rape stories seriously, only when it is believed that a “victimization ritual” is needed to help Assange drop a timely story in what is usually Israel's "time of need," times that happen more and more often and, frankly, a cause a bit beyond fixing anymore.

What kind of people are accused of rape as a "positive" thing? Well, let's talk about the Bush family. We will do this as framing but it is more. Bush, Blair, Assange, Murdoch, Kissinger, Giuliani, this is a bit of a clan. There is little doubt who is in charge here, little but some.

Recent revelations tying old line Nazi hold outs to financing Israel's submarines, nukes, bio weapons and poison gas, the formerly "imaginary" DVD Christopher Story wrote about so often leads to this group along with McCain and the Romney family.

Only when you put them together with the taint of the Third Reich and the Rothchild banks do we begin to understand ISIS and Al Qaeda, that and the CIA's decades of drug dealing, that and so much more, but as we are going to say over and over, this is a story about Julian Assange, or is it?

Back in 2000, there were two GOP sex scandals. In one, Senator John McCain was accused of fathering a racially mixed child in South Carolina. His best friend, Senator Lindsey Graham is from South Carolina and absolutely gay, homosexual or whatever you want to call it. This isn't a rumor, we have this from his close associates at Charleston Air Force Base, a command in the midst of one of America's two largest gay communities.

This base has the highest percentage of gay officers and enlisted of any command in the military in a city, Charleston, which is the heart of the gay community in the US. Charleston is also a great town and the gay community there has made it a tourist destination with great restaurants and tremendous style.

So, why would someone want to accuse a senator who continually travels with an openly gay senator of fathering a "black child?" Could it be for cover?

It gets better.

His opponent, a former "cheerleader" at Andover with a gay roommate was George W. Bush. During the election, GOP operatives fed Larry Flynt, the publisher of Hustler Magazine, a story that Bush had gotten nine women pregnant. All were said to have had abortions and were paid off, bought expensive homes, given high paying government jobs, to shut them up.

Let's go back to the period of the Vietnam War. A major real scandal was Bush being given a "slot" in an "Air National Guard" unit in Houston, Texas.

Houston is that other city, the Montrose district of Houston has long been the pedophile capital of the US with hundreds of young boys working the streets and countless brutal child murders. This was the "stomping grounds" of George W. Bush and the community where he spent his formative years, he and his father.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=XWY8T3ujxNw>

The video above, long suppressed, discusses that community and makes reference to powerful Washington politicians involved in a child trafficking ring based out of Houston. This is 1981. You will hear everything but the mention of the Bush name, they leave very little to the imagination.

This is a great and highly credibly documentary done by legitimate journalists. There is a long story behind this video, one we can't tell here but we suggest you do the courtesy of watching it.

Last week I was called by one of our VT contributors, a former Pentagon official and DC insider. I had been contacted many years ago, while working for an intelligence agency, over a blackmail attempt against Bush Sr. I was told that Bush had been at a fundraiser in Kansas City, Missouri that had, upstairs, also hosted top GOP "rain makers" in a tryst with young boys. I was told they were all adults, over 16 anyway.

I was later to find out some were much younger. I was told Bush was never in the room. I have no personal knowledge otherwise but other sources at the highest levels of the former Bush (41) administration now state something very different. This was the call I got. I hadn't asked for it but as everything else is coming out, why not this too.

The son, Bush (43), well, this is a photo of Bush and a special friend.

Featured with Bush is Jeff Gannon, someone who has slept over in the White House more than the ghost of Lincoln. Gannon, a former Marine and gay escort, was a Bush favorite at press conferences and regular overnight guest at the White House.

This is “W” with his close friend, Tony Blair, note the biceps. No beer can crushing bouts for this not so dynamic duo. Would Assange make a nice “third” to this pair? Bush could have been impeached for his haircut alone. Is it possible to spend an entire life as a bugging fratboy?

Then we can get to Jeb. Recently, the Huffington Post ran an article describing Jeb as a minor drug dealer and bully, sort of.

“The first time I really got stoned was in Jeb’s room,” Tibbetts told the Globe. “He had a portable stereo with removable speakers. He put on Steppenwolf for me.” Tibbetts was eventually forced to leave the boarding school after being accused of using drugs.

The Globe also spoke to some of Bush's former classmates, who recalled a "physically imposing" young man who was seen as intimidating by some and a bully by others. Tibbetts recalled a story to the newspaper of an occasion during their boarding school days when he and Bush taunted a smaller student who lived in their dorm by sewing his pajama bottoms so that the student couldn't put them on."

The photo below shows this period when "imposing" Jeb was the bully of Andover. Wonder how Jeb would have done if locked up in the drunk tank at county jail? Could he have defended his honor? In most schools, the "Prince Valiant" haircut would have been enough. Do take a second look at the photo, look at both Jeb and "W," and tell me what you see. Would you have burned this photo?

But this is a story about Julian Assange, not the Bush family or is it?

Assange was brought to us out of nowhere, peddling a video of an American helicopter attack. But Assange hated Iraq and supported the war against them. He saw and still sees Iraq as a threat against Israel.

This is how Wikileaks got busted, their promises from 2010 and 2011 to release material on Israel but what did they actually do? Wikileaks turned the material over to a "working group" made up of Israeli security personnel and New York Times staffers. They destroyed some material, chose other material for print.

This was Wikileaks first release of the trove of 250,000 cables given them by the Mossad who intercepted them using encryption devices stolen from Canadian peace keepers on the Golan Heights. Oh, you didn't know that most Wikileaks material was from Mossad spying? Read from the New York Times, May 25, 2011:

“Below are a selection of the documents from a cache of a quarter-million confidential American diplomatic cables released by WikiLeaks. A small number of names and passages in some of the cables have been removed (XXXXXXXXXXXXX) by The New York Times to protect diplomats’ confidential sources, to keep from compromising American intelligence efforts or to protect the privacy of ordinary citizens.

Summary The Israeli defense minister warns visiting Congressional delegations that Iran’s nuclear program cannot be allowed to expand indefinitely before Israel will be forced to attack. Within a year and a half, the minister says, the program will have progressed so far that the “collateral damage” of an attack would be too great...”

Why release this cable? You see, the CIA had just released a National Intelligence Estimate indicating that Iran had no nuclear program.

From Foreign Policy, February 15, 2011:

“The U.S. intelligence community has completed and is circulating a new National Intelligence Estimate (NIE) on Iran’s nuclear weapons program that walks back the conclusion of the 2007 NIE, which stated that Iran had halted work on its covert nuclear weapons program.”

What have we learned?

The answer is simple, Wikileaks and the New York Times were part of a propaganda program leaking as Zbigniew Brzezinski called it “pointed intelligence furnished by a foreign agency.”

Wikileaks, and this has been true time after time, is caught peddling Israel’s lies in order to bring about a war.

There he sits like a turd in a punchbowl, a thousand days. Only Argentina will talk to him as seen in the interview below. Look for substance, there will be none. Books and movies have been foisted on the public but to no avail. Wikileaks is dead. Oh, it did its damage, providing cover and deception for Israeli spying, silencing critics of the 9/11 coverup and acting as perhaps the, for a while at least, the most effective tool in Netanyahu’s arsenal, now leaving only Fox and Jones.

Western ISIS adventurism, Israel behind Hamas - new Assange revelations

Julian Assange has given an interview to an Argentinian paper from his Ecuadorian embassy asylum where he spent more than 1,000 days. He spoke about why US meddling in Ukraine led to civil war, how the West helped ISIS and Israel supported Hamas.

US has long wanted to bring Ukraine to West

The United States has spent “a lot of time trying to bring Ukraine to the West,” the WikiLeaks founder said in an interview to Pagina/12, Argentinian newspaper on Monday.

“If it cannot be with a NATO membership, at least it becomes independent from Moscow's sphere of influence, to reduce Russian industrial-military complex and its naval bases in Crimea.”

Kiev first step closer to NATO was in December 2014, when President Petro Poroshenko signed a law canceling the Ukraine’ non-bloc status and promised to hold a national referendum on NATO accession in the next five to six years.

In January, Kiev authorities announced that the Ukrainian army would take part in 11 international military drills in 2015 to bolster NATO standards in troops.

One more attempt of US and Europe to ‘bring Ukraine closer to the West’ was spending “billions of dollars on the creation of NGOs,” said Assange , adding that “through these institutions, the West promised to end corruption in Ukraine.”

ISIS result of Western adventurism

Meddling of Western countries in the Middle East led to creation of the Islamic State (IS, formerly ISIS), an Islamist group that is currently gaining a massive following across the wider Middle East and Africa, Assange said.

“The IS is a direct result of the adventurism of the West,” Assange said.

He says the “adventurism” of Western countries has already destroyed the Libyan and Syrian society and now is “destroying Iraq for oil and other geopolitical reasons.”

READ MORE: ISIS claim laying waste to 4th century Iraqi Christian monastery \(PHOTOS\)

Many people know that arms are being transported to Syria, that there are attempts to reduce Iranian influence in postwar Iraq by supporting the Sunnis, he said. But “what we don’t know is that in recent years in recent years Saudi Arabia, Qatar and Turkey have increased their power and managed to gain certain independence from the US."

As a result, Washington ceased to be "the only geopolitical actor" pushing developments in the Middle East, believes Assange.

Israel supported Hamas in its infancy

The WikiLeaks founder accused Israeli authorities of supporting Hamas group at its early stages in order to divide the Palestinian resistance.

"Our cables reveal that Israel supported Hamas in its infancy, that Hamas was used as an instrument to divide the Palestine Liberation Organization [PLO] and the Palestinian resistance," Assange told the paper.

Assange has been living in the Ecuadorian embassy in London while awaiting safe passage to the Central American country, where he has been granted asylum. Staking out the building, in case the Australian should leave the premises, has already cost British taxpayers a hefty £10 million, according to govwaste.co.uk.

READ MORE: Guarding Assange has cost British taxpayers almost £10mn

Assange has not been charged with a crime, but is wanted for questioning in Sweden regarding allegations of sexual misconduct brought against him in 2010.

Read more Palestine files 'Israeli war crimes' probe request with accession letter to ICC – report

An arrest warrant was issued for Assange in 2010 in the wake of sexual assault allegations leveled against him by two Swedish women. He denied the allegations of sexual misconduct and rape and managed to avoid extradition to Sweden by seeking refuge in the embassy in 2012.

READ MORE: ‘Like living inside space station’: Julian Assange marks 1,000 days in limbo

He repeatedly announced that he is ready to answer all questions concerning his sexual assault allegations within the sanctity of the embassy. However, Swedish prosecutors were reluctant to do so until March this year.

"If Assange gives his consent, the prosecutor will promptly submit a request for legal assistance to the British authorities to further continue the investigation," the Swedish Prosecution Authority said in a statement.

Assange's Swedish lawyer welcomed the Swedish prosecutors' request to interview Assange in London, but added that the whole process of questioning could take time.

"We welcome [this] and see it also as a big victory ... for Julian Assange that what we have demanded is finally going to happen," Per Samuelson said.

Assange supporters fear that if he is deported to Sweden he will likely face espionage charges in America over his role in publishing sensitive, classified US government documents.

READ MORE: Swedish prosecutors offer to question Assange in London over rape case

But even if Sweden drops the case, he faces arrest by UK police for jumping the bail granted while the British courts considered a European arrest warrant issued by Stockholm.

In June 2014, 56 international human rights and free media organizations signed a letter addressed to US Attorney General Eric Holder calling upon the US government to end all criminal investigations into Assange's actions as editor-in-chief of WikiLeaks, and to cease harassing the organization for publishing materials in the public interest.